1 Support for centres and learners

Anyone studying to sit an examination understands the importance of careful preparation. Here at City & Guilds we offer a range of materials designed to give learners and teachers the necessary support to prepare for our International English Qualifications. This includes syllabi, online materials, sample papers, worked answers and, for our International ESOL and Spoken ESOL qualifications, a complete range of exam preparation books and SmartScreen support. Section 2 of this booklet provides a full list of the resources and a guide of how to order them, along with details of relevant charges.

As well as preparing for the exam, we also recognise that some learners may need to do more work on their language skills, taking their ability to use and understand English up to the next level. For this reason, we have also included a range of course materials that have been recommended by other City & Guilds centres. They are also providing language training and preparing learners for our exams, so their experience is invaluable when it comes to suggested support materials. The complete list of additional resources is given in section 3.

2 City & Guilds support materials

2.2 Web materials – free of charge

On the IEQ pages of the City & Guilds website you will find a wealth of resources to support our examinations and help with preparation. Visit www.cityandguilds.com/ieq for any of the following:

Sample papers

Complete with answer keys, there is at least one full set of sample papers for each examination. In some cases there are up to three papers for each level.

Worked answers

For our English for Business Communications (EBC) qualification our candidates are required to write a variety of business correspondence. In order to illustrate more clearly what is required, we provide examples of ideal responses to the questions.

Examination report

These reports are written by our Chief Examiners and describe candidates' performance in a specific examination at a specific level. They provide:

- an indication of areas of good performance
- an indication of areas for development
- recommendations.

These reports also contain exam tips, advice and information to help candidates avoid pitfalls and help them perform to the best of their ability.

Overview of assessment

This document summarises how the candidate is assessed and describes the standards they need to reach to pass the exam.

Qualifications handbook

The comprehensive guide to the qualification, assessment and standards. It tells you what a candidate needs to know or do in order to pass an examination.

For teachers, it is the instruction manual for exam success and is the foundation for any exam preparation course.

3 Additional suggested support materials

There are many excellent course books aimed at English Language on the market. What follows is a selection of titles recommended by City & Guilds examiners and centres.

We have given the details of the student's book in each series, but it's worth noting that most publishers also offer other resources such as workbooks, resource packs and CDs to complement these courses.

We would recommend that centres check the appropriacy of these materials in terms of context and relevance before adopting them as course books.

Exhaustive information about the following materials can be found on the publishers' websites:
